

Social and Personal

One of the most notable weddings of the winter took place last evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Eleanor Hazard Lindsay was married to Herbert Augustus Claiborne. The ceremony was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, 600 W. Franklin St., in the bow hall, and the Rev. Walter Russell, rector of St. Paul's Church, officiated. Decorations throughout the house were in Anemone lilies and white chrysanthemums, and garlands of these flowers were hung on the balustrade.

The bridesmaids, who included Miss Elsie Willson Harrison, Miss Barbara Colquhoun Trigg, Miss Fanny Braxton Miller, Miss Elizabeth Randolph Preston, Miss Lucy Ford Waltham and Miss Adelaide Lindsay, of Rochester, N. Y., stood on the steps of the wide curving stairway, down which the bride, attended by her maid of honor, Miss Elsie Littleton Lindsay, came with her father. Her wedding gown was of softest white broadcloth, set with a long court train that fell from her shoulders, and the neck and sleeves of the bodice were finished with rose point lace. She carried a presentation bouquet of white orchids and lilies, and her long veil of rose point and duchess lace was caught down close to her head with orange blossoms, and was worn with a short full veil over the face. Hamilton Chubb Claiborne was the bride's best man.

The maid of honor was gowned in pale mauve satin and lace, and carried an armful of pink roses, and the bridesmaids wore quaint gowns of white lace and satin with pinnies of mauve chiffon and sashes of the same. They carried sheaves of mauve-colored chrysanthemums to match their gowns. The groomsmen were Messrs. William H. Trigg, London C. Wellford, Evans W. Lindsay, Thomas Atkinson, Jr., all of this city; Lieutenant Simon Bollivar Buckner, Jr., United States Army, and Francis A. Cox, of Raleigh, N. C.

The marriage was a very brilliant and fashionable event, and many distinguished guests from a distance came to Richmond to attend the ceremony. Mr. Claiborne is a son of Mrs. William H. Trigg and is a graduate of the University of Virginia. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hughes Lindsay, and made her formal debut in Richmond several winters ago. Some of the out-of-town guests present were Miss Amy Claiborne, of Petersburg; Mrs. Simon Bollivar Buckner, Dr. Charles Reid, Jr., of Baltimore; Lieutenant S. B. Buckner, Jr., U. S. A.; Dr. Julian Cabell, of Washington; Mrs. T. Thompson, of Washington; Governor and Mrs. Tenner, of Pennsylvania; Louis Mestral, justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Moore, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, of New York City; Miss Adelaide Lindsay, of Rochester, N. Y.; Frances Cox and Albert Cox, of Raleigh, N. C.

Visitors Entertained.—Mr. and Mrs. Granville Valentine entertained at a theatre party last evening in honor of the young girls who are with the Governors of the several States attending the conference this week. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine had as their guests for the evening Mrs. A. G. O'Neal, of Georgia; Miss O'Neal, of Alabama; Miss Tenner, of Pennsylvania; Miss Pore, of New Jersey; Hodges Mann, R. A. Lancaster, Allen Valentine, Frederick Valentine and Victor Williams. A supper followed the performance at the theatre given at the Westmoreland Club, and the table was arranged with a centerpiece of La France roses in a rustic basket.

The owners of the Academy of Music have extended a formal invitation through Governor Mann, to the visiting Governors and their wives to occupy the boxes at the Academy this evening. The play is "The Love Affair," in which Miss Adelaide Thurston is starring.

Jones-Howe.—A wedding of unusual interest.

throughout this and other sections of the State was that of Miss Sallie De Jarnette Howe, of East Radford, Fauquier County, which took place at the Central Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's rector, Rev. C. E. A. Marshall, of Grace Episcopal Church. Mrs. W. H. Fugate presided at the organ. The church decorations were in green and white, palms, ferns and candles being used with charming effect.

The bride entered with and was given away by her brother, John T. Howe, of Richmond. She was preceded by her niece, little Miss Mary Moore Howe, as ring bearer; her sister, Miss Minnie Stuart Howe, as maid of honor, and her maids, Misses Sarah and Ellen Bell, of Dublin; Misses Helen Ford Trullinger, of Radford, and A. S. McDow, James Trimble, Bruce Williams, Warren Howard and Dr. E. B. Freed, all of V. P. I.

The bride's gown was of satin charmeuse, made with court train and handsome trimmings of point lace and chiffon plaques. Her veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried an exquisite bouquet of white roses.

Little Miss Mary Moore Howe was daintily attired in a white lingerie frock, with pink accessories and carried a basket of pink roses.

The maid of honor was gowned in a creation of pink charmeuse, with draperies of marquisette and dew-drop chiffon. Her bouquet was Killarney roses.

The brides were gowns of white tulle, with trimmings of rose pink and carried graceful bouquets of maiden hair ferns, caught with pink tulle.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and groom were entertained at "Clifton," the residence of the bride's mother, at which only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The house was decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being of pink and white.

The bride, who is the youngest daughter of the late Captain John T. Howe and Mrs. Sallie De Jarnette Howe, is a striking blond of charming manner and attractive personality, and her father, Captain Howe, was a gallant Confederate soldier of the Stonewall Brigade.

The groom is a son of the late Rev. John Clay Jones and Ada Gibson Jones, of Fauquier. He graduated last year from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute with honors.

Mr. Jones resides on his grandfather's estate, near Paris, Fauquier County, Virginia, to which home he will take his bride.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Samuel Hoge and Mrs. J. T. S. Hoge, of Giles County; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bell, of Dublin; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. K. Cowan and Mr. and Mrs. David Lloyd, of Whitehorn; Mrs. Jane Byrd and daughter, of Norfolk; Mrs. John Hampton Hoge, of Blacksburg; and Gouglas Gibson, Mr. Gardner and Miss Sutton, of Fauquier County.

Mr. Lee's Card Party.—Mrs. Charles P. Lee entertained at cards yesterday afternoon at her home, 2215 West Grace Street, in honor of her guest, Miss Janie Pessou, of New Orleans, and her niece, Miss Dallas Lee, of Fairfax.

The house was decorated in pink rosebuds. Assisting Mrs. Lee in doing the honors of the afternoon were Mrs. William Crenshaw and Mrs. A. W. Lee. Miss Lee wore a gown of orchid-colored charmeuse trimmed in panne velvet of the same shade, with a bouquet of orchids, and Miss Pessou wore a gown of King's purple charmeuse trimmed in light blue with a bouquet of lilies. Three younger girls, assisting in serving tea after the game was concluded, were Misses Frances Carrington, Mary Guest and Katherine Lee.

Mrs. Lee's guests for the afternoon included Misses Mary Irvine Watkins, Elsie Christian, Josephine Clarke, Mary Meek, Alston Drake, Caroline Preston, Katherine Hagan, Elizabeth Eschies, Katherine Prentiss, Harriet Gimm, Charlotte Jones, Evelyn Jackson, Lulu Johnston, Camilla Wellford, Flanny Scott, Sarah Oppenheimer and Conway Fleming.

Surfage Meeting.—The meeting announced at the Equal Suffrage League headquarters, to be held at 4:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, 12:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, the postponement is on account of a surfage hearing before the Conference of Governors this afternoon, at which every member of the Suffrage League is expected to be present.

Miss Laura Clay, of Kentucky, who will share the afternoon's program to Miss Mary Butler, of Virginia, who is now improving slowly and hopes shortly to be able to see her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. White and little Flavia White, of the Virginia Home for Incapacities, are visiting Mrs. W. Rawley, of 709 West Grace Street.

Miss Mary Cottle Lee is stopping at the Jefferson Hotel in this city.

Wins Wilson has gone to New York, where he will spend the next several days.

Miss F. Lancelotti Nystram, of 513 West Main Street, has returned from a visit to relatives in Brooklyn, New York and East Orange.

Mrs. Walter J. Herriman, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Virginia Hospital, is now improving and will leave the hospital on Sunday.

Miss Florence Mackubin has returned to Baltimore, after visiting relatives here.

Dr. Woodward, who has recently been operated on at St. Luke's Hospital, is now improving, and will be able to leave some time in the next ten days.

KITCHIN IS MERCIFUL.—He Announces Two Pardons and Four Commutations of Sentence.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]—Governor Kitchin to-day announced two pardons and four commutations of sentences of convicts serving terms, all backed up by recommendations of court officers, county authorities and prominent citizens. The pardons were for James K. Hornor, a colored man, sentenced to one year for larceny, Duplin County, for abandonment; James K. Hornor, sentenced since August 1905, on twelve years sentence for a second degree murder. He is a Confederate veteran over twenty years old.

The commutations were: John C. Cumberland County, served since October, 1909, on twenty-five year sentence for second degree burglary committed to fifteen years.

Lee Fisher, served since 1908 on fifteen year sentence for second degree murder, commuted to six years and three months.

P. Wortham, served since September, 1912, on four months sentence in Vance jail, so that he can be hired out.

Lewis Murry, served since February, 1912, on eighteen months sentence in Hertford County, commuted to nine months.

BROOKS ACQUITTED.—Jury Declares Him Not Guilty of Murdering Lum Lloyd.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]—In the Circuit Court of Spotsylvania County, Va., December 4.—The case of Cason Brooks charged with the murder of Lum Lloyd in Spotsylvania County on August 5 last, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. The two men became involved in a quarrel at a gathering on the date named, when considerable blood was drunk. They were separated for a time, and Lloyd started home, but when Lloyd noticed that he had left, he caught up with him after he had gone thirty yards and attacked him with a large stick. Brooks, in defending himself, drew a knife and stabbed Lloyd, severing an artery, which resulted in Lloyd's bleeding to death in forty minutes. The jury was out but a short time. The accused was defended by Frederick W. Coleman and Lee J. Graves of this city.

Judge R. H. L. Chichester, of the Circuit Court of Spotsylvania County, in response to a motion, ordered the election on the issue of bonds, the proceeds to be used in building permanent improved roads in Livingston and Berkeley Districts in Spotsylvania County. The order calls for bonds to the amount of $40,000 in Livingston District, and $30,000 in Berkeley District. The election will take place February 4.

MURDER TRIAL BEGINS.—William C. Cooper is Charged With Killing J. B. Brooks.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]—Dorville, Va., December 4.—The trial of William C. Cooper, charged with the murder of J. B. Brooks on July 4, was begun this morning in the Corporation Court in the presence of a large number of spectators. William Leigh, Eugene Withers and Jack Lee, of Lynchburg, are conducting the defense. The trouble was experienced in getting the jury, only six men waiting that they had conscientious scruples about serving.

It is anticipated that the case will not be finished before Saturday, as there are thirty-nine witnesses to be examined. Half a dozen were examined during the day. The prisoner, who is a man of good family, is showing the signs of five months' confinement. He is being guarded by his mother and his aunt, and followed his counsel moves closely.

Epidemic of Measles.—[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]—Staunton, Va., December 4.—The Virginia School for the Deaf and the Blind, located here, has fifty-five cases of measles among the 250 pupils of the school, but none of them is seriously sick. It is not uncommon to have measles in the school, but it has never had so many cases before at one time.

The disease has been going through the community, and has about run out, no serious consequences having been reported from any cases.

Recent Performance.—A number of charity functions have engaged the attention of spectators here since the early fall, and there have been numerous benefit performances at local theatres given under fashionable patronage. The Colonial Theatre has been loaned by the management for such an affair this afternoon for the matinee performance. It is for the Virginia Home for Incapacities and is under the direction of the board of managers of that institution.

In and Out of Town.—Miss Lenore Tinsley and Miss Mary Butler left Tuesday for Frankfort, Ky., where they will spend several weeks with friends.

Miss Jessie Evans, who was operated on Monday at the Memorial Hospital, is now improving slowly and hopes shortly to be able to see her friends.

ASSASSIN'S ATTACK SEEMS IRONY OF FATE

Sir Edward Henry Passes Through Many Dangers, to Be Struck Down in London.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.
THAT Sir Edward Henry should have passed unharmed through his long term of service in India as Inspector General of Police and through his police experiences in South Africa after the Boer War, to be struck down by the hand of an assassin, as Chief Commissioner of Police in London, seems somewhat of an irony of fate. One would certainly have imagined that he would be far safer in the British metropolis than in South Africa in 1901-1902, or in India, where human life counts for so little in the eyes of the natives, who have none of that instinctive aversion to crimes of blood that one is apt to find among the most lawless of the white races.

Sir Edward is a particular favorite of the King and Queen, and when they went out to India for the Coronation of the King, they attached him to their suite as a special equerry, knowing that with his Indian experiences, no one would be so well qualified to watch over their safety.

He was not originally meant for the police, but for the Indian Civil Service, and it was while acting in a judicial capacity in the Bengal district of Behar that he showed such remarkable ability in running down a particularly ingenious tribe of criminals known as the Doms, that he was transferred to high office in the Indian Police, eventually becoming the chief of that department. He contributed in no small degree to the suppression of thugdom in India, and introduced into that great Oriental empire the present system of identification of criminals by finger prints, after he had convinced himself of the impossibility of securing accuracy at any rate in India, through the Bertillon method of anthropometry.

On the conclusion of the war in South Africa, Lord Milner, who was then Governor-General there, secured from the Indian government the loan of Sir Edward Henry's services for the purpose of clearing the Transvaal, the Orange River Colony and above all, Johannesburg, of the European and American scum that had flocked thither from all parts of the world. So remarkable were his achievements in this direction that he was summoned home to England to take charge of the Criminal Investigation Department, which comprises some two or three hundred picked officers who each have the rank of inspector. The cream of this force are employed in connection with what is known as "political crime work" and they are assisted in this by a number of secret agents belonging to every class of society, and of whom Major Le Caron was a notable type.

The Criminal Investigation Department also assists foreign governments to keep watch on political fugitives and of whom Major Le Caron was a notable type.

The consequence was that Russian credit began to suffer. It became imperative, therefore, that something should be done to put an end to a course of conduct which was rapidly becoming a public scandal. Accordingly, a summons was sent to M. de Cyon to return to Russia without delay.

De Cyon, however, was shrewd enough to realize that obedience to this order would be equivalent to placing his head in the lion's mouth, and that it would probably result in his being packed off to Siberia. Hence, on the pretext of a sickness which did not prevent him from being seen at Trouville, Dieppe, Vichy and other French watering places much frequented by his countrymen, he declined to return.

Thereafter the Czar issued orders for the degradation of M. de Cyon from his titular rank of Councillor of State, deprived him of all the Russian decorations which he possessed, and finally decreed the forfeiture of his Russian citizenship, with the result that M. de Cyon, who had been for ten years one of the best known and most conspicuous Russian in France and Western Europe, was rendered an outlaw.

De Cyon's French friends then began to fall away from him. Mme. Adam quickly severed her relations with him and he ceased to have any what-so-ever to do with the Nouvelle Revue. Lack of money led him to resort to questionable devices, and he was implicated in several unsavory scandals, notably that connected with the blackmailing of the sugar magnate, Max Lebaudy, popularly known as "Le Petit Soulier." He narrowly escaped conviction, although he attracted the indignity of arrest and detention in prison, and he now died in such complete obscurity in Paris that most of his contemporaries have forgotten his very existence.

BOARD WINS SUIT.—Secures Clear Title to Swamp Lands in Pender County.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]—Raleigh, N. C., December 4.—The Supreme Court delivered opinions to-day in sixteen appeals. In the case of the State Board of Education vs. R. C. Remick, from Pender County, the court affirmed the title of the State board to 144,149 acres of swamp lands in Pender County, included in the Daniel Wheaton tract. The State board now can give unclouded title to this land. It was granted to Wheaton by the State, and then sold to the State for taxes in 1799. The list of opinions follows:

B. and L. Association vs. Bialock, Craven, reversed. Drainage Commissioners vs. Webb Dupuis, affirmed. Farmers vs. Lumber Company, Onslow, no error. State Board of Education vs. Remick, Pender, affirmed. Sanders vs. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, Johnston, no error. Railroad vs. Western Union Telegraph Company, Cumberland, reversed. See Machine Company vs. Bullock, Greenville, new trial. Stahl vs. South Carolina Express Company, Guilford, no error. Sexton vs. Insurance Company, Davidson, affirmed. Cannon Manufacturing Company vs. Indemnity Company, Mecklenburg, affirmed. Whitlock and Robinson vs. Alexander, Mecklenburg, defendant's appeal, new trial. Erwin vs. Bank, Caldwell, modified and affirmed. Williams vs. Bank, Catawba, no error. Corporation Commission vs. Seaboard Air Line and Southern Railroads, Rutherford, new trial. Henrietta Mills vs. McDaniel, Rutherford, affirmed.

"JEFF" LEVY HAS $30,000 OVERCOAT

Question Whether It Was Gift of J. P. Morgan, the Sultan or the Duke of Sutherland.

Washington, December 4.—Representative Jefferson M. Levy, of New York, who owns "Monticello," the Virginia home of Jefferson, and a lot of other things of historic and intrinsic value, has a $30,000 overcoat. The coat is of sable, and Mr. Levy has promised to appear in it when the thermometer drops to a proper degree. The members of the New York delegation are waiting anxiously for the drop.

Mr. Levy admitted that he had the coat, that it is worth $20,000, and that it is about the finest piece of sable in existence. When asked whether he had bought the garment or whether it was a present from a friend, Mr. Levy replied, coyly:

"Ah, that is the question. If you only knew from whom I got the coat you would be surprised."

Whether the coat was a gift from J. P. Morgan, one of Mr. Levy's constituents, the Sultan of Turkey or the Duke of Sutherland, two gentlemen in whose acquaintance Mr. Levy revels, is a much mooted question.
